From Milborne Port to Bletchley Park

An illustrated talk by Elizabeth Lammas

Elizabeth Lammas' mother Mary Tyler nee' Southcombe grew up in Milborne Port, went to school in Sherborne, graduated from Cambridge, and was effectively drafted to become a code breaker at Bletchley Park. Her work enabled her brother (a REME engineer), future husband and many others to survive the D-Day landings and then liberate Belgium in 1944. Elizabeth's talk will take us into the top-secret world of Bletchley Park from a unique family perspective.
